(Rev. 8/31/09)

This is a list of companies and organizations known to provide equipment, supplies or services useful to AV and textual archives. The descriptions of the products or services offered by each are very brief because of space limitations. The list is updated from time to time as new information is received by the compiler from the companies and organizations or from people working in the field. Readers are invited to forward additions, deletions and updates to the compiler.

The list is not an endorsement of the companies or organizations nor the quality of their goods or services by the compiler or by any professional association or organization.

Some suppliers, especially those in the electronic equipment business, are located in the Washington, DC area. There are similar companies in many other locales.

Film, video and audio laboratories dealing with archival originals are not included in this list but are available on a separate list.
